Following its successful second edition in 2019—with more than 20,000 visitors—and 2020 even more despite the pandemic, VARIOUS OTHERS is entering its fourth round from September 10 to October 10, 2021 and still growing. Two new participants enrich the fourth edition of the Munich-based collective, a unique network of internationally operating galleries, non-profit spaces, art venues and the city's major museums. The Espace Louis Vuitton München is part of VARIOUS OTHERS.

This shared energy ignites the season, inspiring visitors to discover the city's artistic spirit, exchange ideas and meet fellow enthusiasts. The offers are wide-ranging but by no means random: an exhibition and event program of the highest quality awaits art lovers and experts alike.

Munich is the ideal place to explore the program by bicycle or on foot. Running for a period of four weeks, VARIOUS OTHERS will focus its Opening Weekend and furthering programming around many intimate events and more personal, enduring discussions with the participants of its high-quality exhibitions and programs. And the decentralized structure of VARIOUS OTHERS, with its 27 Munich hosts, makes it easy to react flexibly to the challenges of the moment. Of course, it will still be possible for all visitors to follow the program and events via social media. But the organizers also stress that personal interaction is indispensable—and also the reason they've joined forces for exchange and dialogue.

Munich's close collaboration of key contemporary art players is unparalleled in Germany. In no other city do curators, artists, gallery owners and important collectors work so closely together across generations. Why? Mutual interest. Interest in presenting the most current trends in contemporary art in Munich. VARIOUS OTHERS move beyond an inner-city exchange between private initiative and public institution to a larger dialogue with the national and international art world. For this reason, VARIOUS OTHERS galleries, art venues and non-profit art spaces invite guests from all over the world every autumn to realize exhibitions together in Munich. The city's museums participate with specially themed talks and panels and also schedule their openings during the OPENING WEEKEND.

The association for the "Förderung der Außenwahrnehmung Münchens als Kunststandort"

(Promotion of Munich's External Perception as a Cultural Location, VFAMK) is a non-profit association aiming to improve supraregional awareness of contemporary art in Munich and draw the attention of an international specialist public to the city's art production and exhibition business. All VARIOUS OTHERS venues are association members.
