Street Art Re-imagined: The Digital Graffiti Wall at MUCA

The Museum of Contemporary Art \(MUCA\) is known for its innovative ideas. Since February, visitors have been invited to get creative on the new Digital Graffiti Wall.

Here, street art comes alive in an interactive, immersive setting, allowing guests to express their creativity in vibrant colours – all within the comfort of the museum premises. Using an electronic spray can, participants “spray” onto a large-format canvas while a camera captures every movement in real time. Special software translates these gestures into realistic-looking digital spray paint, complete with authentic drips, gradients and colour blends. This pioneering art experience opens up a fresh approach to street art for both seasoned sprayers and newcomers alike.
